Whatever of elegance there may have been elsewhere, there was little in the Ludington of sand and sawdust days that could be described by the fashionable adjective of the decade. In the outlying areas of the town, plank sidewalks bordered by rank weeds, were shaded sparsely by scrawny pine-boxed, maple saplings in various stages of growth. The beach was strewn with discarded butts of saw logs, planks and edgings - refuse from the mills - that had been gathered into booms, towed into the big lake, then loosed and permitted to float ashore. Yards were crowded with out-buildings - barns, privies, fuel-sheds, chickencoops, and occasionally a pigsty. Cows roamed at large, pasturing on the stump-littered commons and along the side street, in search of grass. Manure piles flourished in the alleys where flies swarmed triumphantly.

Typhoid and malaria, often at epidemic stage, plagued the town. Cholera morbus took innumerable babies, and diphtheria epidemics terrorized the parents of young children. The germ theory of disease was new, and fumigation with sulphur and the occasional use of carbolic acid as an antiseptic were about as far as the medical profession had gone in the matter of controlling the spread of disease. Flies and mosquitoes had not come under suspicion.

Business streets were lined with frame, two-story or false-front buildings with an occasional modest brick structure. Streets were unlighted except by a few privately maintained post lamps, and after-dark shoppers carried lanterns. The Big Store for a time attracted evening trade by means of a locomotive headlight placed to brighten west Ludington Avenue. Show windows were kerosene-lighted, and drug stores adhered to their ancient custom of dyed liquid in huge bottles for colorful night window dressing. Over hanging signs and awnings swayed and rattled in the wind. Cigar-store Indians and red-and-white barber poles were familiar business signs. Saloon doors and windows were shuttered.

Winter silenced the mills and closed navigation. Only one industry flourished during the freezing weather. Then the little lake, except near the channel, froze completely over, and up near the bayou crews toiled at getting out the summer supply of ice for the town's refrigerators. Cut in huge blocks the ice was packed in sawdust and stored in warehouses from which it was delivered by horse and wagon in twenty-pound cakes during the hot days of summer. Under the impression that ice was pure because it was frozen, it was chipped to cool the drinking water and lemonade that quenched the young city's summer thirst. Not many bragged of good health in those days and the sale of "patent medicines" flourished - Hood's Sarsaparilla, Paine's Celery Compound, St. Jacob's Oil, and an endless list of "bitters" meant to abolish the abominable ague.

Home life was ordinarily wholesome, hospitable and because of many large families generally lively. These not-so-elegant eighties were the days of big meals, the hired girl, summer visitors, and Society spelled with a capital S.

Breakfast, dinner at noon, and the six o'clock supper were built on a base of meat, potatoes and bread and butter. Buckwheat cakes with maple syrup formed a favorite winter breakfast combination. When the family began to get buckwheat rash it was time to change to boiled potatoes and creamed cod fish. Ham or bacon and eggs were year-round staples except when the hens were molting. Peter LaBelle delivered beef by the quarter to many families in winter, and George Tripp sold round steaks for ten cents, the whole steak, not just a pound. Salads were not considered important; green vegetables were not available all the year. Celery was shipped in for Thanksgiving and some rutabagas and beets were stored in cellar bins for the winter, and cole slaw appeared on the table often, but raw carrots were not popular. Kitchens were always redolent of pies, cakes and cookies coming from the ovens of wood-fueled ranges. In many homes flour was bought by the barrel, and "dry groceries" such as sugar, rice, beans and even tea and coffee were sold in bulk, since packaging remained to be developed as people learned more about disease germs. Fruit canning, especially the "preserves" in which as much sugar as fruit went into the glass containers, was the chief culinary accomplishment and pride of many housewives.

We have nothing now like the hired girl of that era. Today she is the maid or one of the staff, or mother's helper. In earlier days she was a combination of several of these. Even then the term hired girl was not quite satisfactory. Some of those who employed her referred to her as a servant or domestic. The hired girl was frequently foreign born. Immigration was less restricted in the eighties and labor was imported to furnish man power for lumber camps and mills. As a rule the first money saved by these men was sent back to "the old country" and used to bring their families here. The next step often was to begin saving money for a farm. One or two daughters in the family could generally be spared to earn additional money. A desire to learn English and escape the isolation of the farm induced the girls to seek the privileges of the town. Since no factories employing women existed, the girls went into homes eager to receive their help. In pre-appliance days when all housework was done the hard way, extra help was a necessity in many homes. The girl's wages were seldom more than three dollars a week. In some homes she was expected to "keep her place," in others she was "one of the family." Whichever atmosphere prevailed, many of these homes were richer for their contact with this sterling element in the community.

Society enjoyed dancing and attended the theatre, entertained with pink teas and card parties and observed the code of calls religiously. A large dancing party was a ball, a small one a hop. Low-neck gowns were frowned upon, and ladies' ankles were not exposed. Courtly manners were observed in the ball room. No lady danced more than twice with the same gentleman unless engaged to him, and she never walked across the ball-room floor unescorted.

Bill boards down town proclaimed that Hazel Kirke or East Lynne or Lady Audley's Secret was coming, and the arrival was eagerly awaited. If Uncle Tom's Cabin played at the Opera House, there was a parade with blood hounds. The minstrel shows also gave noon-day parades with band music. Shakespeare's plays were not infrequent and often well played, despite the limitations of the crude stage and ridiculous scenery. Sometimes a troupe with a week's repertoire gave a different show every night. Several of the churches condemned dancing, card-playing and theatre-going as works of the devil, and their members were forbidden to attend such gatherings.

Children looked forward to the Sunday-school picnic in summer and the concert and tree at Christmas time. When a bit older they would attend choir practice and church socials where they played games and ate hot biscuits with maple syrup, or strawberries with cake, or oyster soup with doughnuts, according to the season. The church supper combined with the yearly bazaar was a huge meal at which layer cakes predominated. Home talent entertainments were frequent and well attended as were magic lantern shows. A large enough group could be depended upon to support a lecture course, though more than lectures were included - jubilee singing, concerts and most popular of all, elocution, the name by which we refer today to readings or impersonations.

Fashion wise, the era of the eighties has been called the Mauve Decade. The Red Flannel Decade would probably have been a more appropriate name. A modern version of sack cloth and ashes, an undergarment worn by men as well as women, long-sleeve and ankle-length, was donned about the first of November and clung (literally for flannel was shrinkable material) until the first of May. Besides its warmth-giving qualities, red flannel was credited with a curative, or at least malady-preventative, value.

Most men were bewhiskered - burnsides, beard, or fringe cut. Though black broadcloth, "plug" hat, and gold-headed cane set the standard in gentlemen's attire, few occasions in Ludington required such elegance. Business suits tailored to measurement and trim with stiff-bosom, high-collar shirts, were supplied by several efficient shops. Men wore high boots, often made to order.

The feminine form divine was imitating the lines and proportions of the hour glass. The corset was one compound curve after another produced by whale bone and a heavy cloth known as drilling. The bustle was a contraption of this same material stuffed with excelsior, reinforced with a wire coil. It fastened about the lady's waist with a belt and buckle. The gown of this period was a marvelous creation of pleats, puffs, panniers, panels and passementerie. If used for best it was very likely made of black silk, "so stiff it would stand alone," fitted "as if she were molded into it."

SOME ADDITIONAL DESCENDANTS OF DANIEL AND PHEBE (PHILBRICK) MOULTON
OF HAMPTON AND RYE, NEW HAMPSHIRE
Compiled by Helen Moulton Meanwell with the assistance of Mr. Eugene M. Dow, Bridgewater, Mass.

Histories of the early Moulton families can be found in Moulton Annals by Henry W. Moulton and in Some Descendants of John Moulton and William Moulton of Hampton, N.H., The Moulton Family Genealogy, 1592-1892, by Augustus F. Moulton.

The present compilation of additional information pertaining to the many descendants of this New Hampshire family omits repetition of the first three generations, namely

- (1) John and Anne (Green) Moulton
- (2) Lt. John (The Giant) and Lydia (Taylor) Moulton
- (3) Daniel and Mary Moulton, all of Hampton, N.H.

and begins with Daniel (4) Moulton of Hampton and Rye, N.H., who was the first son and second child of Daniel (3) and Mary Moulton.

For convenience Daniel (4) Moulton is listed hereafter as the First Generation in order to designate this particular branch of the Moulton family.

FIRST GENERATION

I. DANIEL(4) MOULTON, b. 1699 in Hampton (Rockingham Co.) N.H., bapt. there on June 13, 1708; d. in Rye, (Rockingham Co.) N.H.; m. Dec. 27, 1721, Phebe Philbrick, b. June 9, 1701 in Haverhill (Essex Co.) Mass., dau. of Joseph and Tryphene (Marston) Philbrick.

Rye, N.H. was incorporated in April 1726 and was taken principally from New Castle, with small portions from Portsmouth and Hampton. Again, in the autumn of 1730, several families with their estates were severed from Hampton and annexed to Rye. It is not known whether Daniel and Mary Moulton actually "moved" from Hampton to Rye, or whether the land on which they lived was at one of these times "annexed" to Rye.

It is known however, that the Moulton and Philbrick families had been neighbors since 1650 when Thomas Philbrick Sr., purchased adjoining land from Lt. John Moulton to be near his eldest son, James Philbrick and his daughter, Martha Philbrick Cass.

Daniel Moulton and Phebe Philbrick had ten (or eleven) children:

1. Daniel Moulton, b. Oct. 8, 1722 at Hampton, N.H.; m. Nov. 21, 1744, Ruth Watson.
2. Esther Moulton, b. Oct. 25, 1723; died young.
3. Joseph Moulton (twin), b. Jan. 24, 1726 at Hampton, N.H.
4. Tryphene Moulton (twin), b. Jan. 24, 1726 at Hampton, N.H.
5. NOAH MOULTON, b. Nov. 4, 1726 at Rye, N.H. See Second Generation.
6. Mary Moulton, b. May 13, 1729 at Rye, N.H.
- Omitted in references 1, 2, and 3; listed in 4 and 5.
7. Esther Moulton, bapt. Aug. 25, 1734 at Rye, N.H.
8. Phebe Moulton, b. Apr. 3, 1735 at Rye, N.H.
9. Nathan Moulton, b. Mar. 2, 1738 at Rye, N.H.
10. Lydia Moulton, b. Aug. 28, 1740 at Rye, N.H.
11. Nehemiah Moulton

Omitted in references 1, 2, 3, and 5; question mark in 4.

SECOND GENERATION

II. NOAH (5) MOULTON, b. Nov. 4, 1726 at Rye, N.H.; d. 1782 in the Revolutionary War; m. Nov. 16, 1749, Patience Locke, b. Feb. 16, 1730 at Rye, N.H.; d. 1814 in Lyman (Grafton Co.) N.H., dau. of Jonathan and Sarah (Haines) Locke.

Since there were two Noah Moultons and two Patience Lockes in Rye at this time, local references and records are indefinite and incomplete in specifying which Noah Moulton married which Patience Locke.

The "first" Noah Moulton, born Feb. 23, 1705 at Hampton, N.H., son of Daniel (3) and Mary Moulton, was a brother of Daniel (4) Moulton. It is unlikely that this Noah would have taken an active part in the Revolutionary War at the age of 70 or 72 years.

The "second" Noah Moulton, born Nov. 4, 1726 at Rye, N.H., son of Daniel (4) and Phebe (Philbrick) Moulton died while a prisoner in the Revolution in 1782.

The "first" Patience Locke, born 1711 at Rye, N.H., daughter of William and Hannah (Knowles) Locke, may or may not have been married. A Rye record says that, "Patience Locke (not Moulton) died May 11, 1755 in her 45th year." She is buried in Rye, N.H. where her father, William Locke, died in 1768 age 91, and her mother, Hannah (Knowles) Locke, died in 1769, age 92, are buried. If she died in 1755, this Patience could not have been the mother of Noah Moulton's children born after that date.

The "second" Patience Locke, born Feb. 16, 1730 at Rye, N.H., was the daughter of Jonathan and Sarah (Haines) Locke. She died in 1814 and is buried in Lyman, N.H. with the "second" Noah's sons and their wives.

Extensive research has verified only one marriage date of a Noah Moulton and a Patience Locke: that date is November 16, 1749.

Much credit is due Mr. Eugene M. Dow of Bridgewater, Mass., for his assistance in identifying these marriage partners. Mr. Dow, who is a great-great-grandson of Noah and Patience (Locke) Moulton, has written a manuscript history of "The 400 Families of Lyman, N.H.," which is on file for study in the New Hampshire Historical Society in Concord, N.H.

After uncovering further evidence and sifting out all irrelevant and incomplete material, it is possible to analyze and combine the information thus: Noah Moulton came from Rye, N.H. to Lyman, N.H. about 1770, and was the paternal ancestor of the Moulton family in Lyman. He had born to him seven sons, all of whom settled in the south-western part of the town on what is called Moulton Hill. His son William moved to New York and never returned.

In 1777 Noah Moulton entered the Revolution with his two sons, Noah and Jonathan; he was taken prisoner and died. He enlisted with Col. Israel Moore in Lyman on July 1, 1777. He served with Col. Timothy Bedell's regiment at Haverhill from July 1, 1778 to April 1, 1779, when he was transferred to the regiment of Capt. Webster. He served at Haverhill from April 11, 1782 until October 5, 1782, under the command of Capt. Webster.

In 1791, Patience Moulton of Lyman, "her being at great expence to bring up a number of sons and daughters who are now creditable settlers in said town" purchased from John Wendell a grant of 100 acres in Lot 44 for the sum of "Five shillings" because of "the regard that I profess for the whole family." She was to pay all past and future taxes "in proportion to said 100 acres." On Jan. 16, 1796, Patience conveyed this land to her son, David Moulton, for the sum of one dollar.

Patience Moulton lived with her son, David and his wife until 1790 and then with Daniel and his wife until her death. She is buried in Lyman, N.H., where her tombstone reads, "Patience Moulton, died 1814, age 83. Born Locke and wife of Noah Moulton." Six of her sons and their wives are buried beside her in the Moulton Hill Cemetery.

Noah Moulton and Patience Locke had ten (or eleven) children:

1. Sarah Moulton, bapt. Apr. 14, 1751 at Rye, N.H.; d. Sept. 22, 1836; m. Mar. 16, 1797 at Bath, N.H. to Thomas McFarlane. No children.
2. JOB MOULTON, b. Sept. 25, 1752 at Rye, N.H. See Third Generation.
3. Mary Moulton, b. 1754 at Rye, N.H. never married.
4. JONATHAN MOULTON, b. Feb. 5, 1757 at Rye, N.H. See Third Generation.
5. NOAH MOULTON, b. Dec. 14, 1759 at Rye, N.H. See Third Generation.
6. Daniel Moulton, b. 1761 at Rye, N.H.; d. 1836; m. Millicent Wheeler, b. 1764; d. 1833. No children.
7. DAVID MOULTON, b. 1763 at Rye, N.H. See Third Generation.
8. JOHN MOULTON, b. 1766 at Rye, N.H. See Third Generation.

9. Abigail Moulton, b. 1770 at Lyman, N.H.; m. Sept. 14, 1791 to Bernard Powers.
10. WILLIAM MOULTON, b. 1773 at Lyman, N.H. See Third Generation.
11. Margaret Moulton, (sometimes listed).

THIRD GENERATION

III. JOB (6) MOULTON, b. Sept. 25, 1752 at Rye, N.H.; d. Jan. 29, 1838 at Lyman, N.H.; m. Sept. 15, 1785 in Bath, N.H. to Anna Way, b. Jan. 2, 1765; d. Jan. 14, 1844 at Lyman, N.H.

Job Moulton, Revolutionary soldier, enlisted in 1775 under Capt. James Osgood, Col. Timothy Bedell's regiment and served in the Canadian campaign. In 1832 his pension was allowed for two years actual service as private, New Hampshire line. After Job's death in 1838, his widow was pensioned and filed a birth record of their eleven children.

Job Moulton and Anna Way had eleven children: (all born in Lyman, N.H.)

1. Patience Moulton, b. Apr. 10, 1784; d. Aug. 29, 1871 at Lyman, N.H.; m. Jan. 20, 1803, Seth Paddleford in Lyman, N.H.
2. Anna Moulton, b. Jan. 2, 1786; d. Sept. 20, 1862 at Lyman, N.H.; m. abt. 1802, William Barber.
3. Abigail Moulton, b. Dec. 9, 1787; d. 1886; m. Philip Paddleford.
4. Matilda Moulton, b. Dec. 3, 1789; m. Solomon Miner.
5. Hannah Moulton, b. Dec. 16, 1791; d. Oct. 7, 1796 at Lyman, N.H.
6. Ruby Moulton, b. Jan. 9, 1794; d. 1886; m. Feb. 19, 1818, Amos Kimball.
7. Martha Moulton, b. July 7, 1796; d. 1884; m. Nov. 20, 1825, Jonathan Moulton, son of Jonathan and Martha (Gibson) Moulton. For their children see hereafter.
8. Isaac Moulton, b. Feb. 28, 1798; d. Nov. 3, 1839; m. Mar. 19, 1835 in Bath, N.H., to Hannah Minot. They had one son:
  1. Edwin Moulton, b. Oct. 27, 1837.
9. Mindwell Moulton, b. Mar. 18, 1803; d. Apr. 7, 1875; m. 1827, Walter Charlton.
10. Alpheus Moulton (twin), b. July 30, 1804; d. 1886; m. July 12, 1833, Sarah Ann Fowler.
11. Alden Moulton (twin), b. July 30, 1804; d. Sept. 6, 1839 at Lyman, N.H.

III. JONATHAN (6) MOULTON, b. Feb. 5, 1757 at Rye, N.H.; d. July 12, 1846 at Lyman, N.H.; m. 1794 to Martha Gibson, b. Jan. 16, 1772; d. Apr. 7, 1842 at Lyman, N.H.

Jonathan Moulton's will dated Aug. 19, 1841 and probated Sept. 15, 1846, names his wife, Martha and eleven children. His tombstone in Lyman, N.H., reads, "He was a Revolutionary soldier and one of the first settlers of this town." His wife Martha is buried beside him.

Jonathan Moulton and Martha Gibson had twelve children: (all born in Lyman, N.H.)

1. Betsey Moulton, b. Nov. 5, 1795; d. Dec. 17, 1885 at Lyman, N.H.; m. Dec. 25, 1817, Adria Thornton.

III. WILLIAM (6) MOULTON, b. 1773 in Lyman, N.H.; m. Jan. 8, 1801 in Bath, N.H., Betsey Dickinson, b. abt. 1775-1780; d. about 80 years of age, buried in Waterford Cemetery, Lot 45, Buckhorn, Iowa. Betsey (Dickinson) Moulton later married Samuel L. Oatman, b. 1782; d. Sept. 26, 1850, buried in Waterford Cemetery, Lot 45, Buckhorn, Iowa.

Very little is known about William Moulton since he moved to New York and never returned. It is presumed that in 1790 he was living in Lyman, N.H. with one of his brothers either David or Jonathan. On Aug. 18, 1801, William purchased land in Lyman, "where he now lives, for $100" from Thomas Pillsbury. He bought an additional "100 acres out of Lot #13, for $300" on Sept. 28, 1802 and another conveyance was made in 1806, both of these latter parcels from John Wendell of Portsmouth, N.H. On Apr. 11, 1803, William sold the "100 acres out of Lot #13, for $300" to Elijah Dickinson but evidently kept the other two plots.

On Jan. 8, 1801 William Moulton was married in Bath (Grafton Co.), N.H. to Betsey Dickinson and they had one son, Thomas Jefferson Moulton. There may have been other children, since the names "Jonathan and Jack" were often mentioned when speaking of their family. A Jonathan Moulton of Stockholm and a Jacob Moulton of Norfolk are listed in the Census of 1830 as living near Thomas Jefferson Moulton in St. Lawrence Co., N.Y. Whether William Moulton died or was separated or divorced from Betsey (Dickinson) Moulton is not known.

An old account book kept by Thomas J. Moulton of South Forks Twp., Jackson Co., Iowa, mentions in 1823, "Betsey Moulton of Lyman, my mother," and on "June 5, 1850 step-father (Samuel L. Oatman) and mother (Betsey Dickinson Moulton Oatman) arrived here." Betsey Oatman was called to Iowa by the illness of her son, who died about a month after her arrival. A few months later her husband died also; Betsey lived thereafter with her daughter-in-law, Lucena (Adams) Moulton and later with her grandson William Moulton in South Forks Twp., until she died.

William Moulton and Betsey Dickinson had one child: (perhaps others)

ADDENDA ON THE DESCENDANTS OF ELEAZER WHEELOCK, 1654-1731

Compiled by William Farnellee Marsh

Contributed by J. Arthur Daniel

The following information on the descendants of Eleazer Wheelock, though it has come into the editor's hands from an entirely different source, seems to follow in proper sequence Mrs. Gonseth's article on the Wheelock family which was published in the last issue of the Magazine.

Second Generation

II. ELEAZER WHEELOCK, b. Medfield, Mass., May 3, 1654; d. Medfield, Mass., Mar. 24, 1730/1; m. 1st Rehoboth, Mass., Apr. 17, 1678, Elizabeth Fuller, who d. Mendon, Mass., Jan. 11, 1688/9, dau. Robert and Sarah (Bowen) Fuller and widow of Nehemiah Sabin of Rehoboth who was killed by the Indians in June 1676. Eleazer Wheelock m. 2nd Mary Chenery, b. Nov. 21, 1662; d. Medfield, Mass., Oct. 23, 1732, dau. Isaac and Elizabeth (Gamline) Chenery.

Capt. Eleazer Wheelock was distinguished both at Medfield and later at Mendon as a hunter of wild beasts. Soon after his first marriage he lived for a time at Mendon where he was surveyor in 1681. In 1701 he returned to Medfield where he purchased from Grindal Rawson the Willson homestead where the town hall now stands; after the death of his brother Samuel he came into possession also of the original Wheelock property on the west corner of North Street. He was a selectman and prominent in town affairs.

Eleazer Wheelock's first wife had two children by her first husband, Elizabeth and David Sabin, who were brought up with the Wheelock children.

Eleazer Wheelock and his first wife Elizabeth Fuller had three children:

1. Elizabeth Wheelock, b. Medfield, Mass., Jan. 2, 1678/9; d. Windham, Ct., Jan. 20, 1703; m. Jan. 15, 1699/00, Lt. Elisha Smith. They lived in Windham, Ct., and had two children.

ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS OF SOLOMON SIBLEY
OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Contributed by Beulah Puffer Kresge

10. HENRY HASTINGS SIBLEY (Solomon 6, Reuben 5, Jonathan 4, Joseph 3, Joseph 2, John 1) was born in Detroit, Mich., Feb. 20, 1811; died at St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18, 1891; mar. at Fort Snelling, near Mendota (then St. Peters), Minn., May 2, 1843, Sarah Jane Steele, b. Chester Co. Pa., Feb. 8, 1823; d. St. Paul, Minn., May 21, 1869; dau. of Gen. James and Mary (Humes) Steels.

Henry H. Sibley's youth was spent in Detroit where he was born only six years after the village was destroyed by fire. It is presumed that he was educated in one of the local schools of which there were several, perhaps in the one conducted by William Brookfield and his wife, "excellent people and good instructors." This school was located on the southeast corner of Woodward Avenue and Woodbridge Street in 1817. Henry H. Sibley also received instruction in the classics under a tutor for two years and spent the same period of time studying law.

In the spring of 1828, in his eighteenth year, Henry H. Sibley left Detroit to become a sutler's clerk in the store at Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie. A year later, in 1829 he entered the employ of the American Fur Company, at Mackinac, a position he held for five years. During the last two winters of this service, he was stationed at Cleveland, Ohio, in charge of purchasing supplies for the company.

John Jacob Astor sold out his interests in the northwest in 1834 to a new company in New York City, without change of name. Ramsay Crooks, who had been connected with the fur trade for many years, was chosen president of the company. About four years afterward in December 1838 in a letter to his father, dated at Prairie du Chien, Mr. Sibley wrote as follows: "I arrived here two days since on the ice from St. Peters in company with Mr. Crooks who came across from Lake Superior to the Mississippi."

Hercules L. Dousman and Joseph Rolette, veteran fur traders in the Northwest, in the summer of 1834 invited Mr. Sibley to join them as a partner in operating one of the outfits of the American Fur Company and to assume exclusive management of the trade with the Sioux tribe of Indians, from Lake Pepin to the Canadian boundary and west to the Rocky Mountain Divide. On October 28, 1834, having accepted this offer, after an arduous journey by canoe and horse, he arrived at River St. Peters (Mendota) near Fort Snelling. The following year with the aid of voyageurs and Indians, he built himself a substantial home, the first stone dwelling house erected in Minnesota. The large front room was used by him as an office and store. After his marriage in 1843, this house became the family home and was occupied as such until the removal to St. Paul in 1862. This historic house was restored by DAR chapters throughout the State of Minnesota and opened to the public on June 14, 1910.

In the years 1839 to 1841, Mr. Sibley, in letters to his parents, speaks of returning to Michigan "for good" but owing to adverse conditions in the state after the crash of 1837, he decided to remain at St. Peters. He was elected delegate to Congress in November 1848 to represent the territory east of the Mississippi, consisting of 23,000 square miles which was not included in the State of Wisconsin when it was admitted to the Union on May 29, 1848. He was elected delegate to Congress from Minnesota Territory, which had been created through his efforts. Re-elected in 1851 he declined longer to be a candidate. He was inaugurated the first governor of the State of Minnesota, admitted to the Union May 11, 1858.

When the Sioux uprising occurred on the Iowa and Minnesota frontiers, in 1862, Mr. Sibley commanded the white forces, composed of volunteer citizens. Though there was a delay in procuring arms and ammunition, in only five weeks the power of the savages was broken at the decisive battle of Wood Lake and they were captured two days later. The Army Register under Officers of Volunteers, 1861-1865, includes: "Sibley, Henry H., appointed Minn. Brig.-Gen. 29 Sept. 1862; mustered out 30 April 1866; received the brevet rank of Major Genl. of Volunteers Nov. 29, 1865."

During President Grant's administration, Gen. Sibley was appointed a member of the board of Indian Commissioners. In the early period of his life on the frontier he had been much interested in the sports of the Indians. He described these sports in the Spirit of the Times and Turf, Field and Farm under the pen-name of Hal, a Dacotah.

In 1871, Gen. Sibley was elected to the State Legislature; in 1888 he received the degree of LL.D. from Princeton University; held the office of President of the Chamber of Commerce of St. Paul, member of the Board of Regents of the State University and the State Historical Society to whose Collections he made many contributions.

Gen. Sibley in the early 1880's corresponded with his brother-in-law Charles C. Trowbridge of Detroit. A quotation from a letter dated April 17, 1880 follows: "It is amazing to witness the rapid development of this new northwest. There are more than a million of people in the region, where when I came here, there was not a single white man except those at the military post of Fort Snelling, or others engaged in the Indian trade, and the number is increasing at a wonderful rate. In the two cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis within a circle of ten or twelve miles from where I sit nearly or quite a hundred and twenty thousand inhabitants find a home, more than one hundred rail-road trains thunder through our streets every day, and we are connecting with Manitoba on the north and Dakota, Montana and other Territories westward. The most fertile imagination would fail to conceive of the changes that the next short decade will bring about in this portion of the Union."

11. MARY C. (or S) SIBLEY (Solomon 6, Reuben 5, Jonathan 4, Joseph 3, Joseph 2, John 1) was born Detroit, Mich., 1813; died Detroit, Aug. 6, 1852, aged 39 years; mar. Detroit, Oct. 17, 1850 Charles Sidney Adams, b. Newburyport, Mass., April 26, 1813; d. Los Angeles, Calif., July 24, 1859 aged 46 years. He was the son of Dr. Isaac and Sarah (McHard) Adams, natives of Andover, Mass. who came to Michigan in 1830 and settled first at White Pigeon, later removing to Troy, Oakland County. Charles S. and Mary C. (Sibley) Adams are buried in Elmwood Cemetery.

Charles Adams was in 1845 a member of the firm of Whiting & Adams, land agents with an office on Griswold St., Detroit. He was a member and officer of the second lodge of Odd Fellows organized April 13, 1844 and vice-president of the Detroit Musical Association organized Nov. 2, 1850. In 1841 Mary Sibley was a communicant of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church. When she died she was a member of Christ Church.

Child of Charles Sidney and Mary (Sibley) Adams:

- i. Mary Sibley Adams, b. Detroit, Mich., 1852; m. Robert Forester McEwen

12. AUGUSTA ANN SIBLEY (Solomon 6, Reuben 5, Jonathan 4, Joseph 3, Joseph 2, John 1) was born in Detroit, Mich. in 1816; d. Detroit, March 21, 1841 aged 25 years; mar. Detroit, Feb. 20, 1838, James A. Armstrong, b. Washington, Litchfield Co., Conn., Nov. 21, 1805; d. Detroit, March 10, 1874, aged 69 years; son of Orrin M. and Beulah (Hine) Armstrong. Mr. Armstrong mar. 2nd Mary Esther Bates. The funeral of Augusta Ann (Sibley) Armstrong was held at the residence of her father. Her infant child was buried with her.

13. ALEXANDER HAMILTON SIBLEY (Solomon 6, Reuben 5, Jonathan 4, Joseph 3, Joseph 2, John 1) was born in Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17, 1817; d. in New York City, July 10, 1878; mar. in Monroe, Mich., Sept. 14, 1865, Marie Louise Miller, b. Monroe, Sept. 11, 1839; d. Detroit, March 25, 1922, dau. of Dan Bramble Miller, Monroe pioneer, and Ann Elizabeth (Davey) Miller.

When a young man, Mr. Sibley was employed for several years as teller in the Bank of Michigan in Detroit. During the gold rush, he went to San Francisco with the first regiment of United States Troops that ever visited California, having the contract for furnishing supplies. Afterward he was engaged in mining operations and resided in London as agent for western mining companies. He purchased a large tract of mineral lands in Canada on the north shore of Lake Superior and became president of the company that located the Silver Islet mine on this land. Through inheritance and mining operations Mr. Sibley acquired a large fortune. Although Mr. Sibley and his family considered Detroit their home, for several years previous to his death he had spent most of his time in New York City, where he died suddenly of paralysis at his hotel. His funeral was held in Elmwood Chapel with burial in Elmwood Cemetery, Detroit.

Mrs. Sibley, who survived her husband for many years was a leader in religious, social and musical affairs of Detroit, having been one of the organizers of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. She died at the family home on Jefferson Avenue, her funeral was held in Christ Church with burial in Elmwood Cemetery.

Children of Alexander Hamilton and Marie Louise (Miller) Sibley:

- i. Frances Wythes Sibley, b. New York City, Jan. 24, 1867; resides in Grosse Pointe, Mich. She was President of the Michigan Branch of the Girls Friendly Society for 20 yrs. and National President in 1914. For many years she headed the committee administering the vacation camp of the society at Pine Lake.
- ii. Alexander Hamilton Sibley, Jr., b. New York City, Oct. 4, 1871; d. Bremen, Germany, Aug. 4, 1929; buried Elmwood Cemetery, Detroit. He was a graduate of Trinity College (1892) and of Harvard Law School (1897). For four years he was associated with the law firm of Russell & Campbell in Detroit, then practiced alone until 1908. He organized the insurance firm of Burtenshaw & Sibley from which he withdrew in 1916 and established the firm that bore his name. He made his home at the Grosse Pointe Club. He was a member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Society, several other Detroit Clubs and Christ Episcopal Church. Mr. Sibley was never married.
- iii. Mark Miller Sibley, b. New York City, Nov. 21, 1874; d. Detroit, Mich., April 2, 1932 after a long illness; buried in Elmwood Cemetery. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War, and World War I. He was a member of the Country Club and University Club of Detroit. Mr. Sibley never married.

14. SARAH ALEXANDRINE SIBLEY (Solomon 6, Reuben 5, Jonathan 4, Joseph 3, Joseph 2, John 1) was born in Detroit, Mich., July 25, 1820; died, Detroit, April 11, 1918 in her 98th year; buried on the family lot in Elmwood Cemetery.

When Miss Sibley was born her parents resided at the northeast corner of what is now Randolph Street and Jefferson Ave., though at that time these streets had not been opened through. The lot purchased by her father extended east nearly to the Brush line and northward some distance but not as far as Larned St. The house, according to Charles C. Trowbridge (Detroit in 1819, Mich. Pioneer Coll. 4:471) was a large, one and a half story building with a spacious hall and wing. The front of the lot on Randolph St. was a lawn with pear trees and at the corner on the avenue was a flower garden. In the rear on Jefferson Ave. were the stables and a kitchen garden. About this time (1819) Mr. Sibley erected a two story brick building on Jefferson Ave., connected with the old house by a corridor. This addition contained a dining room, kitchen and dormitories. He intended to build another addition on Randolph St., but changed his plans, sold the premises and built his mansion on the Moran farm. At present the site of this Sibley home is occupied by a hotel.

Across Jefferson Avenue southerly from the Sibley home was the Hull mansion, built by Gov.

Hull after the village was destroyed by fire. This house was occupied by several different families, one of them that of Gen. Alexander Maccomb, after whose daughter Miss Sibley was named Alexandrine.

The first school attended by Miss Sibley was a small wooden building, located across Randolph St. westerly. Since no streets were paved in those days, during wet weather a negro servant carried her to school on his back. The site of this school is now included in the grounds of the new City-County building completed in 1955. Later on Miss Sibley attended the Female Seminary opened in Detroit in June 1835.

About seventy years of Sarah A. Sibley's life were spent in the home on Jefferson Avenue next to Christ Episcopal Church. Here it was that she made a home for her orphan niece, Mary Sibley (Minnie) Adams and later on for the three orphan McEwen children of this same niece.

With other young ladies of Detroit during Civil War days, Miss Sibley was very active in collecting and preparing material to send to the soldiers engaged in the service of their country. She made thirteen trips to Europe during her lifetime, where she studied art and visited nearly all the cities of importance in the old country. Following her death which occurred at the old home, funeral services were held in Christ Church with burial on the family lot in Elmwood Cemetery.

15. FREDERICK BAKER SIBLEY (Solomon 6, Reuben 5, Jonathan 4, Joseph 3, Joseph 2, John 1) was born in Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23, 1824; died Detroit, April 8, 1907. He never married.

Mr. Sibley was educated in the local schools and St. Paul's College in Flushing, L. I. Returning to Detroit, he studied law in the offices of Joy & Porter, but desiring a more active life he engaged in the fur trade in northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. At the beginning of the Civil War he removed to New York City, where he became a successful contractor in army supplies. After the war he returned to Detroit where he spent the remainder of his life.

Following the death of his father, Frederick Sibley in 1856 acquired the claims of his brothers and sisters to property on the Detroit River, purchased by Solomon Sibley years before in which there was a valuable bed of limestone. In addition to this property, he purchased several hundred acres of farming land in the vicinity. Mr. Sibley quarried and sold the limestone until 1905 when, except for the 200 acre farm, he disposed of all his property to the Sibley Quarry Company. It has been said that no man in Michigan was ever more looked up to by his employees; that he always had a kind word or deed for those who labored with him.

In addition to his business interests, he was a director of the Detroit Savings Bank for thirty years and a vice-president of the Wyandotte Savings Bank. During the last fifteen years of his life he occupied a home at 133 Larned St. East. His funeral was held at the home of his sister, Miss Sarah Alexandrine Sibley, with burial in Elmwood Cemetery. His monument bears the following inscription: "He Never Turned His Face From Any Poor Man."

INSCRIPTIONS FROM CEMETERIES AT ATHENS, VERMONT

Mrs. Harold H. Cady of Bellows Falls, Vt. and Miss Olive M. Searle of Westfield, Mass.

VALLEY CEMETERY

To reach this cemetery take the road beyond Cambridgeport toward Brookline, bearing left. (The road to the right a short distance beyond the Cambridgeport turn goes to Townsend.) Then after another left turn across a small bridge over a brook, the cemetery is a short distance up the road on the left side. These inscriptions were copied August 26, 1954, by Mrs. Harold H. Cady, Mrs. D. J. Russell, and Miss Olive M. Searle.

Our heritage is best understood by a study of the things that the ordinary folk of America have done and thought and dreamed since they began to live here. They have done and thought and dreamed some rather extraordinary things, as a matter of fact, whose true significance does not always appear on the surface.

Bruce Catton in American Heritage for December 1954

REPORT OF MEETINGS
Roy E. McFee

The auditorium was completely filled for the meeting of February 11. Mrs. Bernice Sprenger, Reference Assistant at the Burton Historical Collection, gave a concise and enlightening talk on the Michigan Biography Index available there. This is an index to the biographies in Michigan county histories, and in effect an index to Michigan pioneers.

This index begins with nine handsome red volumes, the pioneer names running alphabetically as far as the family name of Shirley. For a name farther along, the index is yet on cards, in drawers above the blue-labeled Detroit Biography Index in the catalogue alcove.

To use the Michigan Biography Index, the searcher first refers either to the red volumes or to the cards, whichever covers the part of the alphabet containing the name. In one place or the other, he finds the pioneer's full name and usually year of birth. Also given is a code word for the particular county history having the biography, together with page number.

The second step is to refer to a drawer in the cabinet on the reference desk at Burton. This drawer has the key cards to the Michigan Biography Index. Each card has a code word underscored in blue, and these cards are arranged to put code words in alphabetical order. When the desired code word has been found on a card, that card will also give the author's full name, complete title of the county history wanted, and the call number.

"Detroit and George Washington" was subject of the talk by Dr. F. Clever Bald, Assistant Director, Michigan Historical Collections, University of Michigan. He is author of two recent books, Michigan in Four Centuries, and Detroit's First American Decade, 1796 to 1805.

Dr. Bald paid tribute to George Washington as a man whose sterling character won France for a friend during the Revolution and even aroused the admiration of the British.

George Washington never came to Michigan. His nearest approach was at Pittsburgh in 1754, at the beginning of the French and Indian War. But he was very conscious of the existence of Detroit, his interest continuing for forty years. He was first impressed with its strategic location as a military post, later with its economic significance.

Especially during the Revolution, Washington realized the importance of sea power on the Great Lakes. The British controlled Lake Erie, and thus the Americans could not use it for moving troops -- to Detroit, for example. Washington repeatedly urged a campaign against Detroit, although saying he had no forces to send from the East. In 1780 he wrote to Governor Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, declaring that the post of Detroit should be reduced for the tranquility of the West. That mission would have taken a strong force, however.

The British held Detroit for thirteen years after the treaty of peace was signed. They held it partly because Montreal and Quebec merchants wanted to keep their profitable fur trade. But in 1794, after the Battle of Fallen Timbers, the British agreed to give up Detroit in two years. This they did. The American flag was raised as Detroit changed hands. This was while George Washington was still President of the United States.

Past President Francis Waring Robinson of our Society, who presided over the program, had on exhibit: an engraving published at Boston in 1800, commemorating the death of George Washington; an original engraving by Edward Savage after his own painting of the Washington family; and an early English mezzotint of George Washington, done about 1800.

For the meeting of March 10, an alert and expectant audience greeted Miss Dorothy V. Martin, Curator of Manuscripts on the Burton staff. She spoke on "Manuscripts in the Burton Historical Collection," with her listeners following eagerly to the last word.

Miss Martin explained that manuscripts constitute one of the largest sections of Burton and are the most difficult to use. The manuscripts are organized to fall into two broad divisions: personal papers and classified manuscripts.

The personal papers are indexed separately from other Burton material, with card index at the far end of the reading room. These personal papers comprise 1,500,000 pieces, or more than 2000 collections. They are indexed under the name of the person whose papers they are. They consist of correspondence, account books, ledgers, diaries, and papers on special activities. Examples are Aikin Papers, Horatio Seymour Papers, and Campau Collection.

The speaker next discussed classified manuscripts. Those manuscripts which belong to no special group are classified like books, in the same index, but with "MS" above the call number. In using the index, it is important to copy carefully everything pertaining to the call number. Examples of classified manuscripts are: unpublished biographies, theses, and histories of a business, institution or organization; unpublished genealogies; compilations of birth, marriage, death and cemetery records; archives of schools, clubs, and patriotic societies; and transcripts of church records. At Burton, classified manuscripts comprise no less than 4000 titles, and occupy 200 lineal feet of shelving.

"The American Indian" was the topic of Louis H. Burbey of the Detroit Times, as he addressed our group again, after speaking to us years ago. He was introduced by Past President L. Austin Pearce as "a great historian, a profound student of the American Indian, and one who has spent twenty-five years of research on the first white man to come into Michigan."

The speaker said that the Indians in America were not alike. They were divided into linguistic groups quite separate and different -- "nations unto themselves." The Michigan Indians, for example, were basically of Algonquin stock. They were of the same race as the Iroquois, of course, but different in the linguistic sense. The Ottawas, Potawatamis and Chippewas here in Michigan had the same customs, language base, organization and religion.

But how did the American Indian, without written records, trace his ancestry? He traced his ancestry no more than does the average white man of today. The usual white person does not know anything about his ancestors farther back than his grandparents, and often does not know even the family name of either grandmother. So it was with the Indian, who, incidentally, counted his descent through the mother.

The Indians had some records of clan and tribal history, remembered by the women. Stories were thus handed down by older women of the tribe. Also, clan history was perpetuated in clan customs, rites, insignia, dress and wampum. Of course they all knew they belonged to an Indian nation, as the Sioux or Mohawk, for instance, because they spoke the language. The Indians had no surnames until the white men came, just as we had none until some centuries ago.

The American Indian had great hospitality, as shown in the help given the Pilgrims. What Chief Massasoit brought the Pilgrims was not surplus food corn from Wampamoag stores. It was their seed corn, carefully saved, and desperately needed for the next spring's planting!

The chairs were specially arranged in curved rows for the unique meeting of April 14, with its thrilled audience. Again, there were two speakers for our delightful program.

Miss Dorothy Berry, Bindery Assistant, Burton Historical Collection, spoke helpfully on "Some Binding Problems Presented by New Accessions in Burton Collection." The wide reputation of Burton and the activities of our own Society bring several hundred manuscript compilations yearly to the Burton Collection. Many of these gifts still need to be bound.

Miss Berry mentioned these types of binding available for different kinds of material: regular binding (buckram or vellum) for books and periodicals; screw-binder for the incomplete volume or set; box portfolio for old books too fragile to be resewn; and Gaylord binder for smaller items (usually with fewer than 100 pages). These types are done by the Library's own bindery. In addition are special bindings and cases made by outside firms. To allow for possible future binding, pages should have margins of one to one and a half inches on inner side, one inch at top, and one and a half to two inches at bottom. Photographs can be reproduced on the page itself or mounted on a page-size sheet, as done successfully by our members, Mrs. E. B. Kresge and Mrs. Marion Hay.... This was a most important talk.

"Spiritual Spires of Detroit and Monroe," illustrated beautifully with color slides, was the talk by Mrs. Kay Burkit Miles, art teacher, author and photographer. A friendly and fluent speaker, she was introduced by Mrs. Frances Chase as "a native-born Detroit, with family roots deep in Ohio and New York." Mr. Miles assisted by operating the projector.

Mrs. Miles said that her teaching led to taking these pictures. She wanted to impress her art students with the beauty of Detroit churches -- teaching them to look at more than poles, wires and gaudy advertisements. Some of her students had never noticed church spires!

Her pictures featured of course some of the oldest and most famous Detroit churches. Some, with dates of building, are: SS. Peter and Paul--1844, Mariners'--1848, St. John's Episcopal--1860, Christ Episcopal--1863, Central Methodist--1866, St. Patrick's--1872, St. Mary's--1884, First Congregational--1891, and Sweetest Heart of Mary--1892. Included was a photograph of the tablet commemorating St. Anne's Catholic Church, built by Cadillac promptly on his arrival at this spot, but long since vanished from the river front.

Among the scores of church pictures were some of Detroit's most venerable buildings, hurriedly photographed just before being torn down. Mrs. Miles photographed one at 6:45 on the last morning that it stood intact on its historic site, overlooking the Detroit River.

She showed her favorite cameras and other equipment, and discussed lighting, avoiding of wires, and choosing weather. She said, "Turn your camera up." Later she added, "But it is not the camera at all. It is what you see. That is my advice as an art teacher."

So many church spires are now hemmed in by industrial buildings. "The architect planned that his spires should always be in the treetops or above them. Very few are now."

The slides ended with churches of Monroe, Michigan. There are only nine, but many are impressive. "Some spires in that small city can be seen eight miles away -- if you look!"

BACKGROUND FOR GENEALOGY
Minnie Dubbs Millbrook

Nearly everyone, who works with genealogy, buys books occasionally. These books may be genealogies that touch ancestral lines or books that provide background reading on events or localities that have become attractive through genealogical contacts. (I once went on a hunt for a mental arithmetic written by one of the twigs on my family tree.) The transition from genealogy to the wider field of history is easy and frequent and the genealogist often finds himself collecting more and more books on many subjects.

Suppose you want to own a certain book. Since books remain in the hands of publishers longer than is often realized, the first move is to check the desired title in the current Books in Print by R. R. Bowker Co., or a similar compilation that lists all books available from the publisher. Books in Print will be found at your library or book store, and you may order your books through the dealer or direct from the publisher. Genealogies are often privately printed and sold only by the author. If the author's address does not appear in the book and the printer's does, write the printer for information. You might also inquire for the source of the book at the library or from the magazine reference in which the book first came to your attention.

If the book is out of print entirely, then you face a more difficult problem and you may be led into a treasure hunt almost as complicated as some of your ancestral searches. For collecting old books is a pursuit that takes not only some knowledge but a great deal of persistence. Thousands of books are published every year, and commonly only library and school books are soon worn out and discarded. Most people have a great respect for books and often keep them on their shelves for a time. But eventually the owner cleans house, moves or dies, and at that time a thorough review of the library shelves is taken. The books are handed down to others or very frequently turned over to a second-hand book dealer. As these books have accumulated and the demand for them has grown, there has come into being thousands of dealers in old books - many more in number than those who deal in new books. And almost surely the book that you want is in the possession of one of these dealers. Visit the second-hand book stores in your community periodically and stop to look in every such shop along the route of your vacation jaunt. Remember that while the book may not be in stock when you call, it may turn up the very next day.

Most of the sellers of used books not only have shops but also issue catalogs and solicit mail orders. There are two houses that specialize in genealogies - Goodspeed's at 18 Beacon St., Boston and Charles E. Tuttle Co., at Rutland, Vt. But all dealers have some genealogies and usually list them in their regularly issued catalogs. Libraries with historical departments are great buyers of out-of-print material and they receive many, many catalogs which you may have permission to peruse. Book dealers also advertise their catalogs in such magazines as The Saturday Review, the book-review supplements of the New York Times and the New York Herald and the writer's magazines. The Antiquarian Bookman, 42 Walnut St., Newark 2, N.J. takes inquiries for books and publishes them at 20¢ a line. This weekly is read by all the dealers and may soon turn up your book for you.

The rare, old, used or second-hand book trade is very informal; but through usage the catalogs have come to employ certain terms in describing their wares that are not familiar to the novice; so some discussion of these may be helpful. Books are ordinarily listed under the name of the author or sometimes first by title and then author or sometimes under subject or geographical headings. The number of pages, illustrations, where published and the date of publication are all given. The date is important because some books have run through several editions and have been extensively revised. You may want the earlier or the later edition. Bindings are noted as of papers, cloth, calf, etc. Also there often appear the term folio, 8vo or 12 mo, which may be a rough indication of the size of the book page but is really a printer's term indicating how many pages were printed at once on a large sheet of paper and then folded to make consecutive pages. Folios are apt to be large as the paper was folded but once. Often actually there is little difference between the size of 8vo and 12 mo. These are terms of importance only to the collectors of very old rare books that were printed without page numbers. The condition of the book is often given as mint, fine, poor, spine shaken, joint cracked, rebound, marked up, foxed or discolored with mildew. There are innumerable other terms and abbreviations used in the catalogs. Should you be caught up in the fascinations of book-collecting after such an introduction, it will profit you to read up on the sport. A good book for that purpose is A Book About Books by Frederic Harrison.

IS THIS YOUR LINE?

THE CONNECTICUT ANCESTORS OF MANY WESTERN FAMILIES

In the year 1636 Francis Griswold received a land grant in Cambridge, Mass., where he died in 1652. Since the only known children of this man were four daughters there can be no male descendants of the Francis Griswold line to bear the surname Griswold.

Edward Griswold was born in England in 1607 and arrived with the Windsor, Conn. party in 1639. In 1663 he and his son John (1652-1717) removed to Killingworth, Conn. Edward Griswold and his wife Margaret were parents of 12 children of whom six were sons. Four of these sons, George, Francis, Joseph and John married and had families.

The will of George Griswold, the oldest son of Edward, seems to offer (according to some authorities) a clue of relationship to Michael Griswold. Other authorities disagree and the positive relationship remains a controversial point.

Michael Griswold was a mason by trade and owned lands in Wethersfield, Conn. as early as 1640. His wife was Ann but her surname has never been positively learned although from time to time speculation is made as to her identity. Michael and Ann had five sons: Thomas, Isaac, Jacob and Michael. The other son - also named Michael - had died in infancy.

Matthew Griswold arrived at Windsor, Conn. in 1639 with Edward Griswold and as a member of the Rev. Ephraim Buit's party. In 1645 he received a land grant and removed to Saybrook (later Lyme), Conn. Matthew Griswold married Anna Wolcott and of their five children there was only one son, Matthew (1653-1716), who had descendants. Nothing is known of the second son, John, and it is presumed that he died unmarried.

These three men who form the nucleus of possible Griswold ancestry for those whose families can trace back to the early Colonial period are commonly spoken of as "Edward of Windsor"; "Matthew of Lyme"; and "Michael of Wethersfield". Since of these four men of the surname Griswold who appeared in the colonies prior to 1645, only three had sons, it is reasonable to state that many families of Griswold heritage may prove descent from one of these three Connecticut settlers.

As early as the third generation we find descendants of the Edward Griswold line moving out of Connecticut into Westfield, Mass.; Walpole, N.H.; and Fairfield, N.Y. After about 1820 the Griswold name became known in many other locations. Descendants of Edward were found in Geneseo, Fairfield and Mt. Morris, N.Y.; in Allegan, Mich.; Rowland, Pa.; Fredericksburg, Va.; Worthington, Ohio; Orwell, Vt.; Dell Rapids, S. Dak., to name but a few.

Isaac Griswold, son of the first Michael, removed to Guilford and later to Killingworth, Conn. Several members of the third generation of this family went to Durham, Conn. About 1768, Stephen Griswold, a 4th generation descendant of Michael removed to Sullivan, N.H. and served in the Revolution from that state. In 1769, John Griswold, another 4th generation descendant was among the settlers of New Haven, Vt. Elias Griswold, still another descendant, died at Sidney, New York but is considered as the "founder" of the Colrain, Mass. Griswold families. Others of the Michael line became residents of Fort Ann, N.Y.; Sheffield, Mass.; Spencertown and Italy, N.Y. After 1820 descendants of Michael were found in Worcester, N.Y.; Castleton, Vt.; Wayne County, Pa.; Independence, Iowa; Byron, Wis.; Mount Pleasant, Pa.; Rochester, N.Y.; Whitehall, Ill.; Wayne County, N.C. and other towns far removed from New England.

Records of the Matthew Griswold line have always been far less complete. However, there is every indication that descendants of this family are also to be found in many towns and cities far from New England.

Since the fourth volume of the Griswold genealogy is now in preparation, records are being sought on descendants of these men. Anyone of the surname Griswold, or who has knowledge of persons of this surname born after 1840, is requested to contact Mrs. Charles Delmar Townsend, 801 Farmington Ave., West Hartford 7, Conn.

A LETTER TO JENNY HUNTER

Dear Jenny:

In hunting Grandfather's N.Y. grandfather from Revolutionary times, most of your search is confined to the fringe of settlements along the Hudson and Mohawk, where anything in the line of an ancestor can happen. Perhaps an original Dutchman, a Huguenot or a Palatine German! Possibly a Rhode Island Quaker -- probably not a Shaker -- but any kind of an Englishman, either direct or via New England. As usual, our first help comes from the New York Genealogical & Biographical Record.

In Vol. 64:134-8, special abbreviations to be used in the magazine list the standard references or principal "source" books used in tracing Dutch and other families around N.Y. calling them "useful to the beginner, as a suggestion whence genealogical information on early N.Y. families can be obtained." Vosburgh's "Settlement of New Netherlands" (Record 55:3-15) lists general references. So does an incomplete list of the original homes in Holland, Belgium and Germany of the pioneer Dutch settlers (Record 65:2-12, 101). Dutch names and aliases require study. During the 16th and 17th centuries, correspondence between countries was usually in Latin; names were latinized too; e.g., Hugo de Groot became Hugo Grotius. Dutch aliases 1639-1756 (Record 10:38) often confuse you; e.g., 51 variants for the Janzsen family are listed. There are many good genealogies of Dutch families, and Dutch lineages are found in the Holland and St. Nicholas Society records.

In the October 1955 issue of the D.A.R. Magazine (89:1003-7), "Genealogical Research for D.A.R." states that "Dutch custom makes it imperative that the first son be named for his paternal grandfather . . . with the first four children, the names of all four grandparents are known." Before relying too stoutly on this, you may want to read Mr. McCracken in the American Genealogist for April 1956 (32:96) on "names of Dutch grandchildren."

After the Dutch, came English and Huguenots, and the Palatine Germans. Huguenots settled New Paltz in 1677 and New Rochelle in 1689 and are also found in Orange and Ulster counties and in New Jersey. After the Peace of Utrecht in 1713, Germans from the Palatinate sought homes in Schoharie and Delaware counties and along the Mohawk. In fact, that river valley shortly became known as German Flats. L.D. MacWethy's Book of Names Especially Relating to the Early Palatines and the First Settlers in the Mohawk Valley (1933) is invaluable for this group. Mr. MacWethy edited the St. Johnsville Enterprise and News with a genealogical page of special interest in central N.Y. problems. In April 1941 appeared Worrick McFee's "Ancestral Trails Along the Mohawk" in The Record (72:105-119), which is a very readable account, plumb full of pertinent helps. One point he stresses is the variance in spelling that can hinder your search until recognized.

This is a good place to introduce what I call the "phonetic approach" in genealogy. It needs interpretation and sometimes imagination to recognize Jacob Cesar in Jacques Casjou; Sharduyn into Chardevine is perhaps more understandable -- or Woeder, Hoeder, Moeder or Roeder for the same family. My favorite is a pension applicant named Han Joet Hess from the Mohawk Valley. He was called at various times Olest, Jotest, Otess, Jotess but certified on the records as John Uthurst. Pronounce the name and let your ear tell you how to spell it; you may come up with the new spelling you need to find the record.

Vaguely drawn colonial land grants caused many conflicts of jurisdiction, particularly along N.Y.'s eastern border. The best publicized troubles were with settlers from the New Hampshire Grants, later Vermont. Just before the French and Indian War, many leaseholders along the Massachusetts line claimed squatter titles from that state or purchased titles from Stockbridge Indians. Further south, a proposed boundary 20 miles east of the Hudson was compromised by keeping the towns of Greenwich, Stamford, New Canaan and Darien under Connecticut rule, while ceding 61,440 acres to New York in "equivalent lands" or "The Oblong" along the eastern borders of the Great Nine Partners and Little Nine Partners patents in Dutchess County. Record evidence for the same settler is often found on both sides of the line.

However, early land tenure along the Hudson probably provides your greatest handicap. The Dutch West India Company granted special charters to patroons who were to satisfy Indian titles and establish colonies, in which case the patroon's grant was generous in area and almost unlimited in authority over his tenants. The English manors down the Hudson and on Staten, Long and other islands were likewise based on perpetual rents from leaseholders. This system poses a genealogical headache in that the tenant had no need to record his land tenure, hence no deeds; he had little property to dispose of at death, therefore no probate matters. To augment census data, extant tax lists and church records are the principal sources and they are usually pretty meagre. Rensselaerwyck, the only patroonship to survive the Dutch period and later changed to an English manor charter, lasted from 1630 to 1838. With later purchases, it embraced Albany, Rensselaer except the three northern towns and part of Columbia counties. There were from 60 to 100 thousand tenant-farmers on Rensselaerwyck when anti-rent troubles started in 1838. It is small wonder we have trouble tracing the lease-holding families. For a better understanding of the tenant's thinking and revolt, read Dorothy Canfield Fisher's Vermont Tradition (1953) pp. 55-133 and Henry Christman's Tin Horns and Calico (1945).

R. W. Vosburgh edited Early New York Church Records for the N.Y. Genealogical and Biographical Society; these are often known as "Vosburgh Records". They are available at the N.Y. State and other libraries in New York, at the Library of Congress and at the Conn. State Library in typewritten volumes (101, I believe) and also on microfilm at many other locations. WPA's Historical Records Survey Guide to Vital Statistics Records of Churches in New York State (1942, 2 vols.) gives data by counties and towns, shows churches, when established, when records began, where kept, etc.; e.g., Births for Friends in Butter-muts, Otsego County, for 1778-1861 can be found at the State Library in Albany. I'm always hoping for a Quaker Monthly Meeting record -- they have so much data on record. Easton MA in southern Washington County also covered families in Saratoga County, Vermont and in the Massachusetts Berkshires. Seven volumes of Ecclesiastical Records were published by the State Historian from 1901-1916. Other church records are undoubtedly available in libraries, schools and colleges over the state, such as the Baptist Historical Society at Colgate University.

Abstracts of wills for the southern district of N.Y. take 17 volumes of the N.Y. Historical Society's Collections, 1892-1908, vols. 25-41. Fernow, Pelletreau and currently Gertrude A. Barber have made much probate material available through libraries.

Besides New York in the Revolution (1901-4, 2 vols.), watch The Record, the N.Y. Historical Society publications and others for additional proofs of military service.

To my way of thinking, however, one can best approach N.Y. research through a regional library. Besides various libraries in and around New York City and the N.Y. State Library at Albany, there are countless public, historical society and college libraries around the state, in which there's a good chance you'll find valuable material for the locality of your search and librarians whose local knowledge often saves you much time and effort. At Syracuse Public, I found a "pioneer index" for Onondaga County up to 1850; abstracts of wills from ca. 1786-1842; completely indexed census records; and church and cemetery records for Onondaga, Oswego, Cayuga and Chenango counties. Rochester Public is becoming a regular "mine" of data for Monroe, Wayne and Ontario counties. Other worthwhile library stops can be made in Buffalo, Canandaigua, Cooperstown, Elmira, Kinderhook, Kingston, Schenectady and Ticonderoga.

N.Y. State Library has a wealth of manuscript material, as well as Dutch records; tax payers' lists; marriage bonds; patents; wills of non-residents; church and cemetery data; war service records and muster rolls; and many other items. I found the indices of some of the Van Rensselaer leases of particular interest -- although of no value in my search.

At the Old Court House at Fonda, you will find the first "county archives" for Montgomery County. At one time, Montgomery had jurisdiction over lands now found under 37 separate governments. While not attempting to cover all this territory, the enthusiastic and able staff of two have gathered so much material -- original Albany County items, state census tallies for 1825 and later, church, cemetery and ministers' records all over the place, and manuscripts -- that this Department of History and Archives is a "must" for anyone working in central New York.

Searching in New York poses so many problems still unsolved for me, it seems sheer egotism to try to give you salient points and leads in just four pages of copy. Best and most satisfying is your personal visit to the libraries and courthouses, the county historians and the countless others who can help you with their local knowledge, and the actual hills and river-bottoms where your ancestors lived. Perhaps they too were at the Batavia Land Office, on Cumoreh Hill, at Oriskany or Sir William's houses on the Mohawk, at Cooperstown, with the Huguenots at New Paltz or the Shakers at Chatham, at Philipse Manor or the Schuyler Mansion on the Hudson or with those so-anonymous Rensselaerwyckers at Saratoga or Ticonderoga. Will you too vacation in New York this summer?

Lucy Mary Kellogg

GENEALOGICAL QUERIES

Inquiries and correspondence for this department should be sent directly to the Queries Editor, Lewis F. Chase, 18656 Filer Ave., Detroit 34, Mich.

1781: J-13: ELVIN-YOUNGS:- Wish all available data on Richard Elvin, whose dau., Margaret, m. Christopher Youngs. She d. 1647, Boston, Mass.

1782: C-65: POWERS-CUNNINGHAM:- Wish data on any of the following: Cyrenius Powers 6, son of Oliver 5, and Elizabeth (Sprague) Powers, b. 1816, m. 1840, Erie Co., N.Y., Lucinda Cunningham, dau. of Joel and Celinda (Dapkin) Cunningham. Also wish data on Scott Cunningham, b. ca 1857, son of Layton G. and Caroline (Rogers) Cunningham.

1783: H-85: HOWARD-MARKS-ROCKWELL-JOYAL-FORD:- Edgar O. Howard, son of Moses and Lamora (Marks) Howard, m., 1866, at St. Albans, Vt., Adaline Elizabeth Rockwell, b. Brome Quebec, 1842, dau. of Joseph and Mary (Joyal) Rockwell. Mary (Polly) Joyal was dau. of Joseph and Experience (Ford) Joyal. These families were all from Franklin Co., Vt. Wish more data.

1784: H-85: HOWARD-RICHARDSON-SHERMAN:- Seeking trace of Corydon Howard, b. 1805, Franklin Co., Vt., m. 1827, Fairfax, Vt., Harriet Richardson. Had dau., Cordelia, b. 1828, who m., 1855, at Fairfax, George H. Sherman. This family believed to have gone west.

1785: H-65: BARNES-SILLIMAN-PERKINS-TANNER-MARSH:- Elisha Barnes (Barns), b. ca 1752, Connecticut. Enlisted in Revolutionary War, 1776. Went to New York after the war. Children: Moses; William; Sally, m. ---- Silliman; Clara, m. ---- Perkins; Twins, Elisha, b. 1794, where? m. Eunice Tanner in Ohio; Elijah, (other twin), m. Diantha Marsh. Wish all available data, especially name of wife and date of marriage.

1786: H-65: GILLAM-BROUGHTON:- Wish ancestry of Sarah (Sally) Gillam (Gillum), b. 1802, at Ottawa, Canada, m. Michael Broughton Jr. in New York, 1827. Son Eli b. 1828, at Gainesville, N.Y. She d. Crawford Co., Penna., 1885. She was of Dutch, Welsh, and English ancestry. It is said her grandparents met on board ship coming over and m. on landing. Where? When? Her father moved from Canada to New York at outbreak of War of 1812, refusing to live under the British flag during war.

1787: B-64: BRAMAN-FISHER:- Wish data on Josiah Braman of Freetown, Mass., who m., 1759, Anna Fisher of Norton, Mass.

1788: D-36: WORTHINGTON- ----- -HALL:- Want parentage, places of residence, and maiden name of Nancy, (1781-1857), wife of James Worthington, b. 1781, Maryland or Pennsylvania, d. 1862. Their dau., Isabella, m. 1826, John Hall. Worthington family said to have lived in Westmoreland Co., Penna.

1789: D-36: RAY- ----- -UNDERWOOD:- Wish parentage and name of first wife of John Ray, b. No. Carolina, 1830. He had sons, Lark and James P. by first wife. He m. 2nd, Elizabeth Underwood, 1858, in Greenup Co., Ky., and by her had: John W., Frank, Jerry, Molly and Ann.

1790: D-36: BAILEY-JACKSON:- Want parentage and places of residence of Lemuel M. Bailey and wife, Cenia (Jackson) Bailey. Cenia m. 1st, Stout Harvey and had dau. Susan Harvey, who m. a Mr. Sowards. She had five brothers, who served in the Civil War: Isaac, Roland, and Robert Jackson in the Union Army; John and Washington Jackson in the Confederate Army. Lemuel and Cenia were living in Lawrence Co., Ohio, in 1852 when their dau., Catherine was born.

1791: S-85: McKEEVER-JAMISON-HOLLENBECK:- Thomas McKeever, b. 1768, Ireland, came to U.S. at the age of 23, with two brothers. He m. Margaret Jamison, and settled in Brooks Co., Va. (now W. Va.). They had 14 children, the first one b. 1797. The eighth child, William, m. Susannah Hollenbeck in 1835. Previous to which time the family moved to Perry Co., Ohio, where Thomas and Margaret died. Wish more data on Margaret (Jamison) McKeever, b. 1775, d. 1880, thought to be of Scotch ancestry.

1792: S-85: HOLLENBECK-JONES:- Susannah Hollenbeck (above) b. 1814, d. 1898, was the dau. of George Jacob Hollenbeck. Her mother was perhaps, Nancy (Jones) Hollenbeck. Wish proof.

1793: H-76: INGHAM-FULLER:- With a few isolated facts, am trying to trace Hulda Ann, b. 1832 to Dr. Stephen Ingham of Massachusetts.

1. Dr. Stephen Ingham was, perhaps, a founder of Hingham, Mass.
2. Dr. Stephen Ingham lived at Ingham's Mills, New York.
3. Dr. Stephen Ingham was a member of the Medical Society of Herkimer Co., N.Y.

(Note. The above, probably involved more than one person.)

4. A deed was issued to Joseph Ingham, of Prichmont, County Berkshire, Province of Massachusetts, dated Jan. 5, 1771.

5. Hulda Ambler m. a Stephen Ingham, and their dau., Hulda Ann Ingham, b. 1832, m. 1849, Loretto Fuller. Will need considerable help.

1794: J-13: ----- HARRIS:- Who was Susannah, b. 1610, England, arrived Boston with Roger Williams? She m. William Harris. She d. 1682.

1795: J-13: HALL:- Wish parentage of Charles Francis Hall, an Arctic Explorer, b. 1821, Rochester, N.H., d. Ohio.

1796: C-50: WILLIAMS-KIRKLAND:- Daniel Kirkland, b. 1773, at Norwich, Mass., m. (when?) Betsy Williams and had: Betsy, Polly (Mary), Louisa, and Daniel, all b. at Norwich (Huntington), Mass. between 1805-12. Wish parentage of Betsy and further data on Daniel. Circumstantial evidence indicates that Betsy could have been the dau. of Larkin and Nancy (Warren) Williams of Chester, Mass. but need proof.

1797: F-17: KELLY:- James M. Kelly (Kelley) with his wife, Delia H. came from Richmond, Maine, and settled in Ottawa Co., Mich., living at Eastmanville and Grand Haven. Richmond, Me. records show two children b. and d.y., and one son, Fred W. b. 1855. James Kelly was well known in Masonic circles for many years in Grand Rapids and Grand Haven. Wish data on his later life, time and place of death, place of burial, etc.

1798: W-55: PARKER-DOANE:- Wish ancestry of Harriet A. Parker, (1810/1-47) buried in Walker Cemetery, Washtenaw Co., Mich., m. ca 1828, Alexander Doane, who d. 1887, ae 84, at Lyon, Oakland Co., Mich. Wish to correspond with descendants of this family.

1799: W-55: STRINGHAM-DOANE:- Wish ancestry of Hester Stringham, who m. in New York ca 1825, Erastus Doane. (See ans. to S-87, STRINGHAM, below.)

ANSWERS

1758: S-87: STRINGHAM:- Erastus Doane, son of Joseph and Esther ----- Doane, b. 1799, New York, m. ca 1825, in Wayne Co., (?) Hester Stringham, and in 1834, migrated to south of Green Oak Mills, Livingston Co., Mich. Both buried in a small cemetery near there. They had children:

1. Rebecca, d. unm.; 2. Jemima, m. 1st, Wm. Webb, m. 2nd, Randall Colvin, lived at Northville; 3. Joseph, b. 1830, Wayne Co., N.Y., m. Jane Corson, had Clara, Henry, and Nellie;

NOTES AND NEWS

At its January meeting the Executive Board accepted with deep regret the resignation of the Vice-President. Mr. Frank Roy Kepler has been a member for a number of years and has always been generous in using his time and talents for the advancement of the DSGR. But he accepted the vice-presidency with reluctance, and he has felt since that, for reasons of health, he would like to be relieved of even that responsibility. We shall miss his wisdom and experience at our official deliberations. Mr. Keith H. Etcher of Windsor, Ontario, Canada was chosen by the Board to fill the unexpired term of office. To him we extend our best wishes and to Mr. Kepler our thanks for past services.

SALUTATIONS:- We are happy and honored to welcome as new members Mrs. Andrew Harding of Bridgeport, Conn., who writes her own recommendation when she says, "At the present time I am involved in a labor of love as Historian of the First Congregational Church of Stratford, Conn. To date I have indexed all of the church records up until about twenty years ago, some five thousand cards. The church was founded 1639 and of course holds some very valuable early records." . . Mr. Antoine Roy of Quebec City, who is Archivist for the Province of Quebec. . . Mr. Ernest Rankin, "presently associated with The Marquette County Historical Society (at Marquette, Mich.), doing research work on the early settlers of the Upper Peninsula, as well as on my branch of the Rankin family." Mr. Rankin also reports having made the acquaintance of another Upper Peninsula member, Mr. David Coon, curator of the Delta County Historical Society at Escanaba, Mich.

Miss Sally Greek of Dearborn is introduced by Mrs. Carlos LaGuire of Trenton, Mich., whom she met at a teachers' meeting. . . Mr. William Geer of Dayton, Mich. discovered us in Chicago at the Newberry Library through the kind offices of Mrs. R.W. Buhmaster of Downers Grove, Ill. . . Mrs. Arthur Smith of Ann Arbor, Mich. has compiled a treatise on The Malcolm Family (available in Burton) and is now at work on the Stelle family history. . . Mr. Robert R. Watson, Jr. is a Detroit attorney and a friend of President Raub. . . Mrs. Waldenmaier of Washington, D.C. knows a good thing when she sees it; she has ordered a complete set of all the Magazines containing Jenny Hunter articles.

The owner of the Hezekiah Johnson Family Bible Record, published in the Spring DSGR Magazine, got an unexpected reward. Mr. Donald L. Jacobus of New Haven, Conn. wrote to say that the hitherto unknown Hezekiah was a son of Eliphalet and Mary (Lines) Johnson and that Hezekiah was buried and had a tombstone in the Carrington Cemetery, Bethany, Conn.

CONGRATULATIONS:- To Mr. Frederick C. Warner of North Amherst, Mass., on his publication of The Ancestry of Samuel, Freda and John Warner. . . To Mr. Giles E. Merritt of Baton Rouge, La., on his two compilations recently presented to the Society, Thomas Merritt of Rye, N.Y., 1634-1935 and Heberle Family Record, 1953. . . To Mrs. Fenton E. Bootes of Middlesex, N.Y., for her "Index of Family Histories" which appear in History of Yates County, N.Y., by S.C. Cleveland, 1873, Vol. II, for the towns of Milo, Potter, Starkey and Torrey. This index includes for each 'head of family' dates of birth and death, birthplace and wife's name, with wife's father's name and residence, if available. Any one interested in these localities will profit from reading the copy of this compilation which Mrs. Bootes has just given the DSGR.

A number of our members have recently succeeded to positions of responsibility in various hereditary and patriotic societies. . . Mr. W. C. Hudson of Royal Oak is now President of the Michigan Sons of the American Revolution. . . Mrs. Paul Wentink has been elected President of the Gen. Alexander Macomb Chapter, Daughters of 1812. . . Mrs. Raymond Millbrook has been chosen Registrar of the Michigan Society, Daughters of Colonial Wars.

Mrs. Clinton Hathaway has gone to California to visit her daughter and grandchildren. . . Mr. and Mrs. C. Foster Meanwell have been vacationing in Florida and Colorado. . . Mr. George W. Cushing, formerly of WJR, has just been appointed community projects director for WJMK and WJMK-TV. . . Condolences are extended to Mrs. Charles King whose Mother died recently.

The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research will be twenty years old next fall. In celebration of this milestone, a special dinner meeting is planned for Saturday, Oct. 13, 1956. We hope that many of our out-of-town members can be with us at that time.
